

PAGE TEN (book 12)

Panel 1-4 are a single panel. Panel 5 and panel 6 are normal.

Make sure to draw pins on all the images of the MORRIS and PORKULUS with pins

PANEL 1, 2, 3, 4:

I'm thinking of this as a big wide establishing shot. I know you will use this space as your sense allows, but this is being reduced from my original plan of two pages to 4 panels. I'm hoping there is a WOW factor as they turn the page and see this.

I am sending along a bunch of pictures of different kinds of boats. I'm picturing this scene with two of the bigger ones exchanging cannon fire with each other.

One is clearly more disabled. A mast is broken and the sails are in shreds. It is listing a little bit and low in the water.

At various points in the background are more ships at various distances. Some of them are firing cannon at another. Maybe a total of 3 or 4 ships (not counting the rowboat).

In the foreground, very small based on the size of everything else going on, are PORKULUS and MORRIS manning the oars in a big rowboat. In the front of the boat is LIEUTENANT MOOSE exhorting them onward.

- | | |
|-----------------------|---|
| 1) TITLE: | "Porkulus and Morris in: The Battle of Lake Erie!" |
| 1) LIEUTENANT: | "Row faster! The Lawrence is sinking! We need to provide assistance!" |
| 2) PORKULUS: | (to Morris) "Do you have more jokes?" |
| 3) MORRIS: | "Nope." |
| 4) CAPTION: | (Fairly large at bottom of panel) September 10, 1813. A little after breakfast. |

PANEL 5

There are two ships facing each other with cannons aimed at each other comically (think Yosemite Sam and Bugs Bunny). On the US ship standing next to the cannon, flying the American flag, is LIEUTENANT MICKEY. On the other side is our old pal, STINKY next to his cannon. They are staring each other down, fists in the air!

There is a caption:

- 1) CAPTION: “It is the War of 1812. The British and American fleets on Lake Erie are in full military engagement near Put-In-Bay, Ohio. The stakes are high!
- 2) LIEUTENANT MOOSE: “Grrrrrrr!”
- 3) STINKY: “Grrrrrrr!”
- 4) CAPTION: “Strategic control of the Great Lakes!”

PANEL 6:

The rowboat pulls up to a ship which is sinking downwards. There is a lone figure standing at the back of the ship. It is OLIVER PERRY, commander of the American Fleet. There is a caption.

LIEUTENANT MICKEY is pointing a ship way (A BRIG) off in the distance

- 1) CAPTION: “Oliver Hazard Perry is in command of the American forces. His ship, the USS Lawrence, has been severely damaged and is sinking!”
- 2) PERRY: (Yelling down to Lt. Moose) “We’re going to have to get over to the Niagra!”
- 3) LT. MOOSE: “It’s almost a mile away!”
- 4) PORKULUS: (to Mickey, smaller text like he’s saying it just barely above to himself) “You might mention the cannons!”

END PAGE TEN

PHOTO REFERENCES PAGE 10

HMS DETROIT/ QUEEN CHARLOTTE - SLOOP

USS LAWRENCE, NIAGRA, CALEDONIA – BRIG

HMS QUEEN CHARLOTTE – SHIP

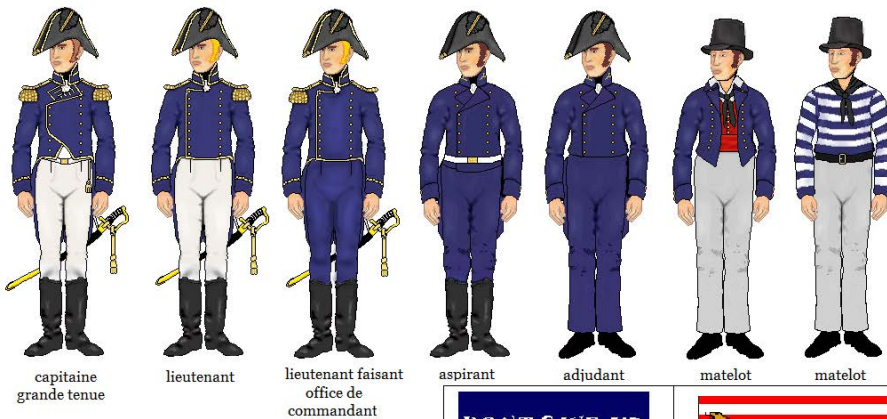

BRIG BATTLE (NOTE how the artist has ships in the background)

UNIFORMS – PERRY & MOOSE WOULD BE THE FIRST TWO – PORKULUS AND MORRIS SHOULD BE THE LAST ONE.

US NAVY 1812-1815

Les uniformes de l'US NAVY furent utilisés pour
Les hommes des SEA FENCIBLES
Les officiers de L'US REVENUE ou garde-côtes

Drapeau de l'US REVENUE ou garde-côtes des Etats-unis

Le drapeau du commodore Perry à la bataille du lac Erié

Le US Navy jack, drapeau de guerre de l'US NAVY

OLIVER HAZARD PERRY

WHAT STINKY (PANEL 5) SHOULD BE WEARING.

THIS EXCEPT ITS STINKY & LT. MOOSE ON BOATS (PANEL 5)

BRITISH & AMERICAN FLAG

MY STUPID SKETCH PAGE

